Kuehne+Nagel expands facility in El Paso, Texas, to meet growing market demand for cross-border logistics

- Increasing capacity by 60% with new 20,252 m² facility
- Meeting continued logistics demand at the U.S./Mexico border in light of sustained nearshoring trend

El Paso, Texas / US, November 6, 2025 – Kuehne+Nagel, a global logistics company, has announced the expansion of its facility in El Paso, Texas. The new site, located adjacent to the company's existing facility, adds 20,252 m² increasing its overall capacity by 60%.

Despite tariff uncertainty, global companies continue investing in nearshoring across Mexico and Kuehne+Nagel is expanding its capacity to support customers in building resilient supply chains.

Strategically located at the border, the site is designed to accommodate the growing demands of customers for northbound and southbound movement of goods between Mexico and the United States. The new, bonded warehouse features 53 dock doors, 65 trailer spaces, front and rear cross-dock capabilities, as well as vertically racked storage locations.

“Our existing 33,723 m² El Paso facility reached full capacity within a year, demonstrating strong demand for cross-border solutions,” said Joachim Goller, Senior Vice President Road Logistics North America. “This success underscores the need for scalable expansion to support our customers and new business while maintaining the high standards they expect. This investment further strengthens our market position at the U.S.-Mexico border and confirms that regardless of current geopolitical shifts, the nearshoring trend is alive.”
